Message from our Pastor

My dear friends,

My Dear friends, please read this exceptional article from Antonio, P. Pueyo:

There is a practice of the faith called "cafeteria Catholicism". In a cafeteria, there are many choices of food, usually of the fast food variety. One chooses what he likes to eat. In the Philippines, this is called a "turo-turo" restaurant, literally "point-point". You point at the food you like and it is placed on your plate.

In the practice of "cafeteria Catholicism" one chooses the doctrines or teachings he likes and disregards the others he does not like. One chooses those which may be convenient for him or which agree with his feelings, opinions, or understanding. He does not buy the whole package. It is like ordering coffee without the sugar or salad without the mayonnaise. This kind of attitude may work well when it comes to choosing what to eat but it becomes absurd when transferred to the realm of practicing one's faith.

If we do not buy the whole package, then what kind Catholicism is it if we like the resurrection but not the cross? We like the meal but not the washing of the feet. We like the victory but not the sacrifice. We like the triumphal entry into Jerusalem but not the passion. We like the reasonable sayings or "logia" of Jesus but not the hard ones.

The gospel this Sunday presents us with the sayings of Jesus. Some of these sayings are reasonable, such as, "If anyone gives even a cup of cold water to one of these little ones, he will not go unrewarded." Other sayings are hard sayings and seem to be unreasonable, such as, "whoever does not take up his cross and come after me is not worthy of me." Or how about, "one who loses his life for my sake will find it." In our family-oriented culture in the Orient, this one is really difficult, "Whoever loves father or mother more than me is not worthy of me." And how about this, "Love your enemy." In a vengeful culture can one accept that, "If someone slaps you on your right cheek, turn and offer the other."

It needs faith to accept and to practice these hard sayings of Jesus. Faith goes beyond the reasonable and culturally acceptable.

It is not just the hard sayings of Jesus where we need to apply our faith. There are also hard teachings of the Church. These are teachings that go against what the culture has come to accept as reasonable and pragmatic. Doesn't it seem reasonable that those who are deemed unproductive due to age, illness, and disability be allowed or encouraged to take a hasty exit from this world? Doesn't it seem reasonable that the stronger, brighter, and more powerful lord it over the weak, the dull, and the helpless? Doesn't it seem reasonable that one chooses only those doctrines he agrees with?

Catholic teaching says that the person's dignity is prior to his capability to work or his productivity. His dignity comes from being made in the image of God. Catholic teaching says that human life begins at conception and therefore should be protected at its earliest stage. The Church teaches that the strong should protect the weak and the first should be the last. Catholic teaching also says that I am not the sole arbiter of what is true or not, of what is right or wrong. There is the bigger community, the Church to which I belong and the magisterium or teaching authority which guides it.

The Church is not a cafeteria. It is a communion of believers where one takes both the hard saying and the soft sayings. One shares the pain and shares the glory.

Reflexión

En la piedra fundamental de un Santuario de Schoenstatt están grabadas dos manos abiertas. Una viene de arriba, otra se adapta desde abajo en esta mano abierta. ¿Y el significado de esta imagen? Dios precisa al hombre. Dios llama al hombre a su servicio. El hombre debe ser compañero y colaborador de Dios en el desarrollo de su Reino.

Ya en el bautismo recibimos la llamada personal de Dios, para participar en la redención del mundo y de los hombres. En el Evangelio de hoy,

Jesús nos invita a entregarnos totalmente por su misión, de seguirle generosamente en su camino. El Señor formula tres exigencias para los que le quieren seguir:

“El que encuentra su vida, la perderá: y el que pierda su vida por mí, la encontrará”

Jesús exige renunciamiento a la realización arbitraria de la vida; exige la lucha contra el egoísmo y la obstinación; exige entregar y arriesgar la vida para Él y su Reino.

Sabemos y experimentamos cada día nuevamente que el egoísmo está muy dentro de nosotros mismos. Por eso, ninguno de nosotros, si quiere ser colaborador en el Reino de Jesús, puede desistir de esta lucha diaria. Así tenemos un vasto campo para nuestra auto educación. E incluso, si no podemos aniquilar este virus del mal hasta el fin de nuestra vida, lo que importa es que estemos luchando contra él hasta el último día.

Sólo esta abnegación de sí mismo, sólo esta renuncia del amor egoísta hace al hombre libre, abierto y generoso por el amor a Dios y por el amor a los demás. Toda nuestra vida tiene que ser un esfuerzo diario para des-centrarnos de nosotros mismos por la construcción de un nuevo mundo, un mundo lleno de amor, de entrega, de magnanimidad.

Cada uno por su camino y según los dones de la gracia está llamado a cumplir servicial y desinteresadamente sus tareas humanas, por amor a los suyos y a todos los hombres, y, en definitiva, solamente así vamos a encontrar la vida eterna.
